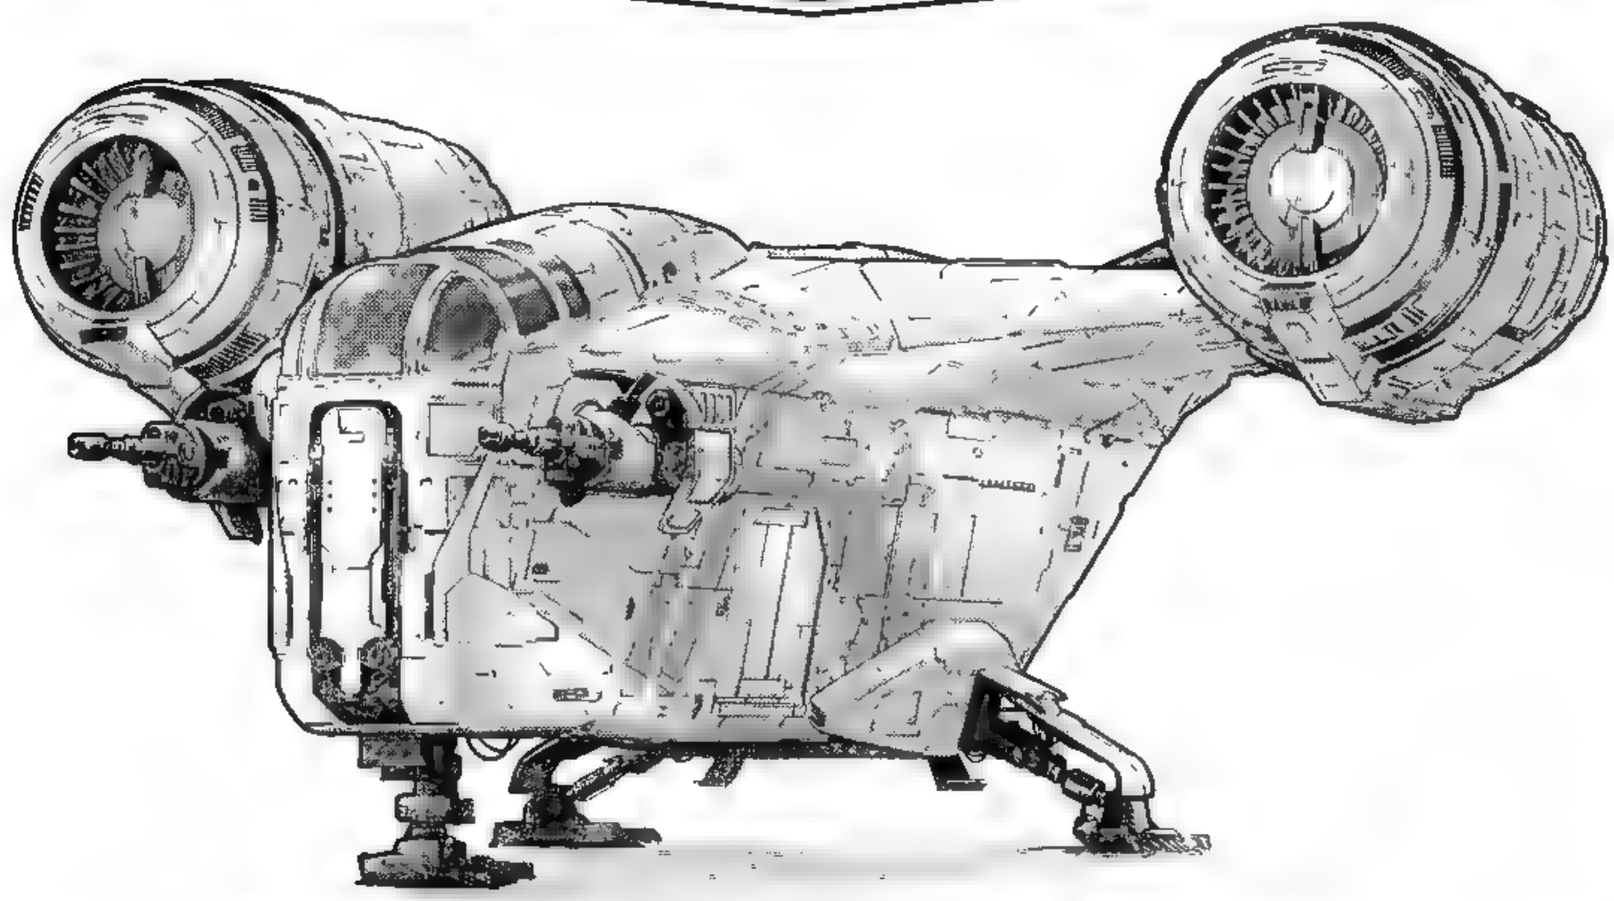
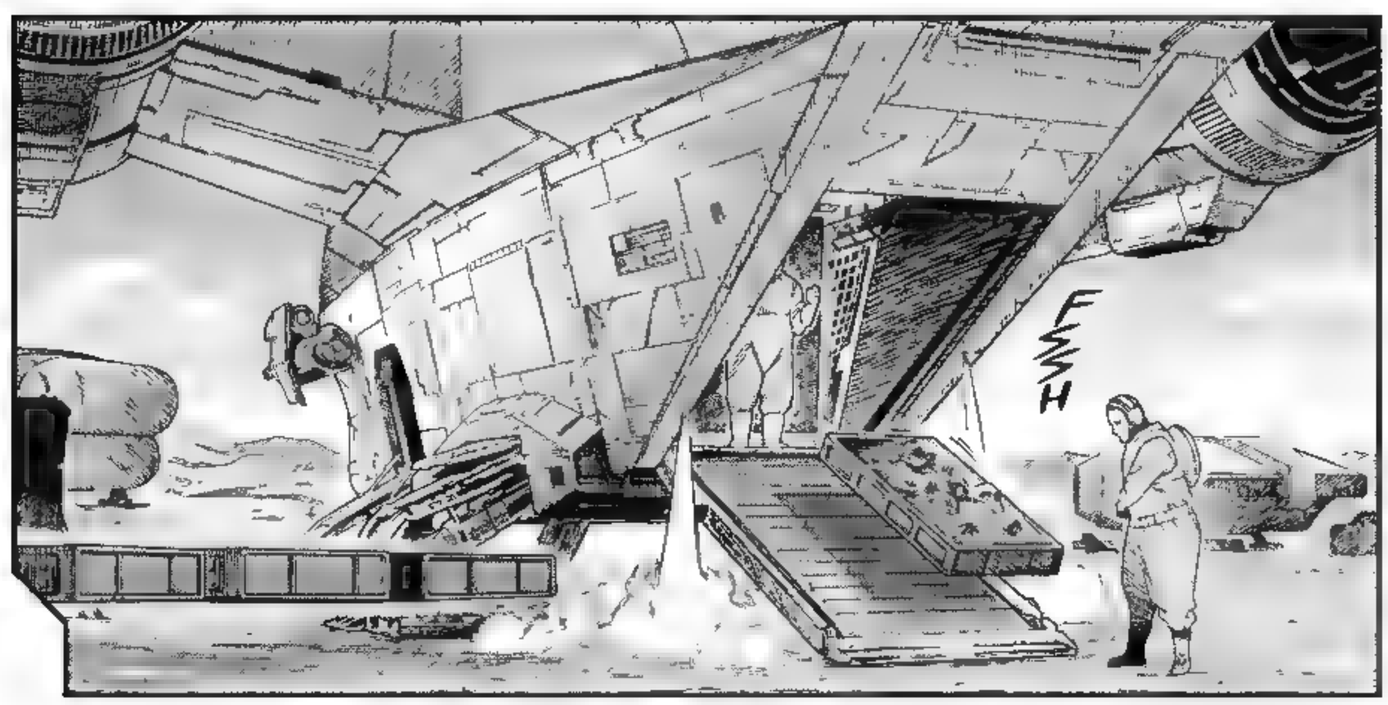
RAZOR CREST



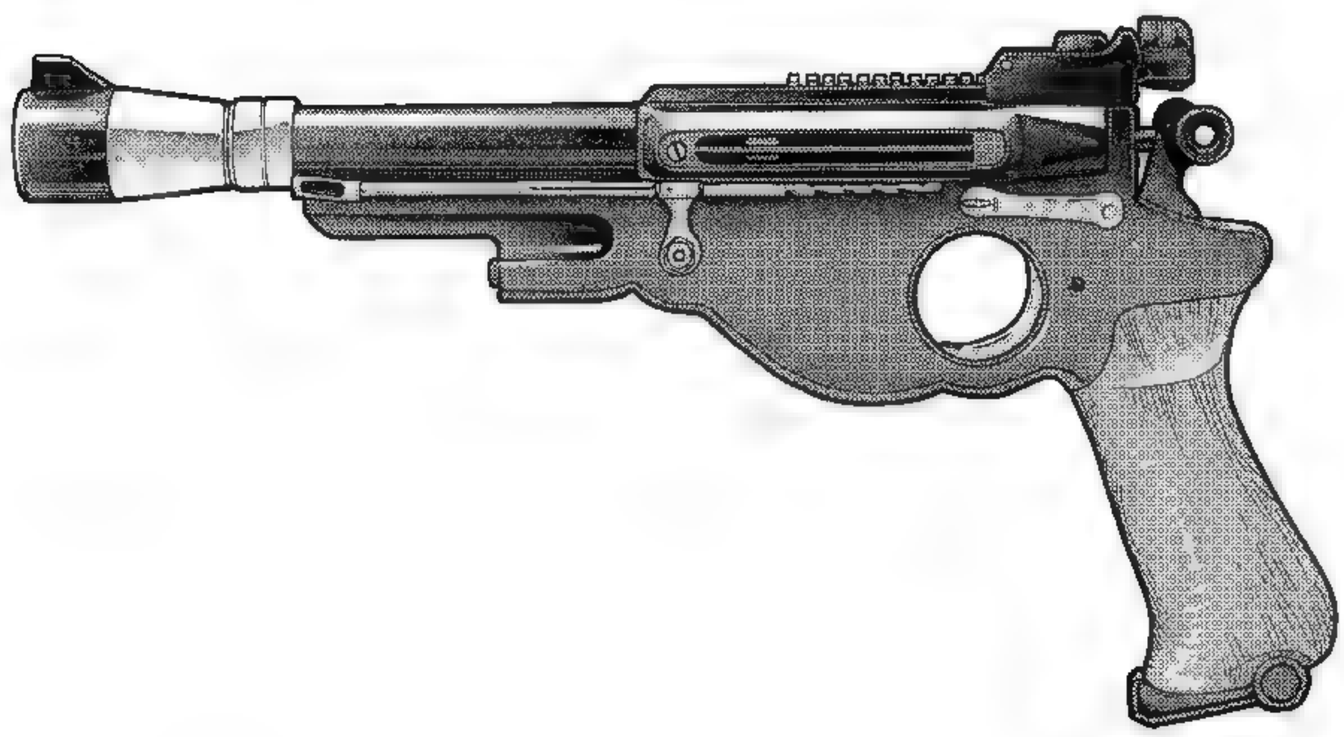


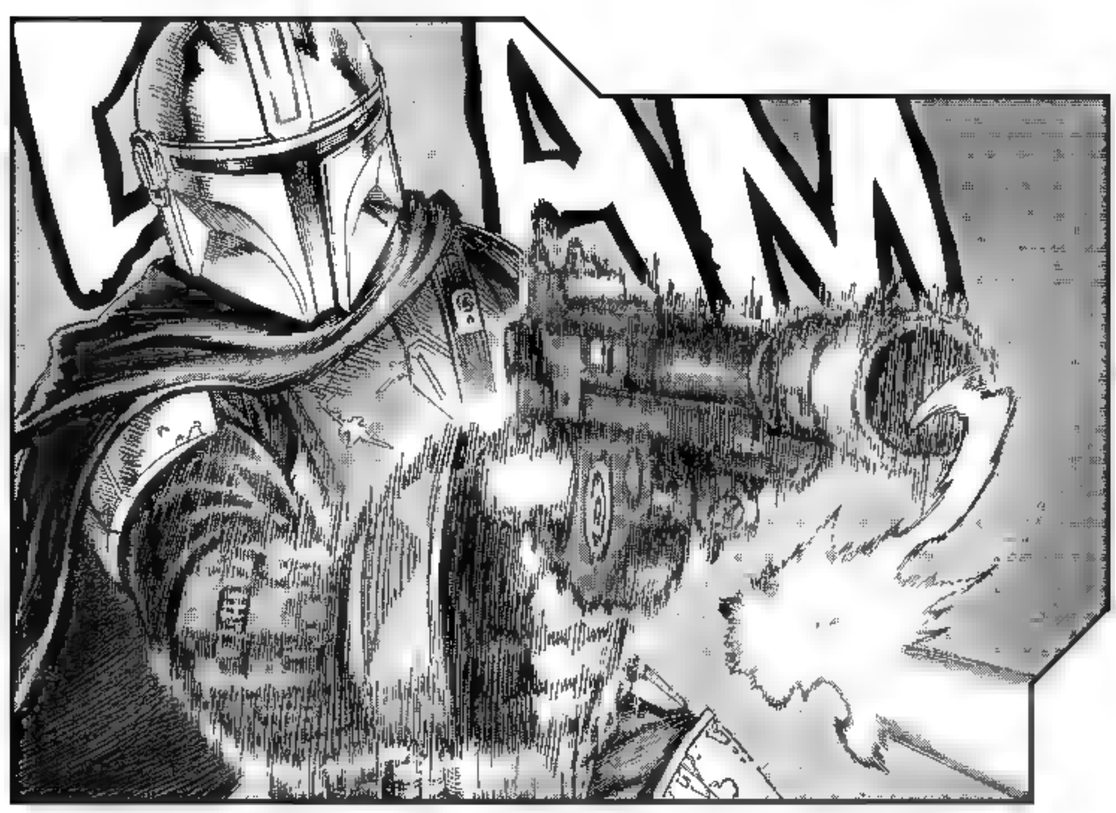
Mando's gunship, equipped with two laser cannons. This class of military vessel predates the Galactic Empire and was used for local patrols in remote zones. The Razor Crest is outfitted with a refresher, sleeping quarters, carbon-freezing equipment, and an escape pod in the upper section.

AMBAN SNIPER RIFLE

Mando's preferred disruptor sniper rifle. Disruptors employ deadly phase-pulse energy to break down its targets to the molecular level. This rifle also features a forked ion prod electro-bayonet for stunning targets.

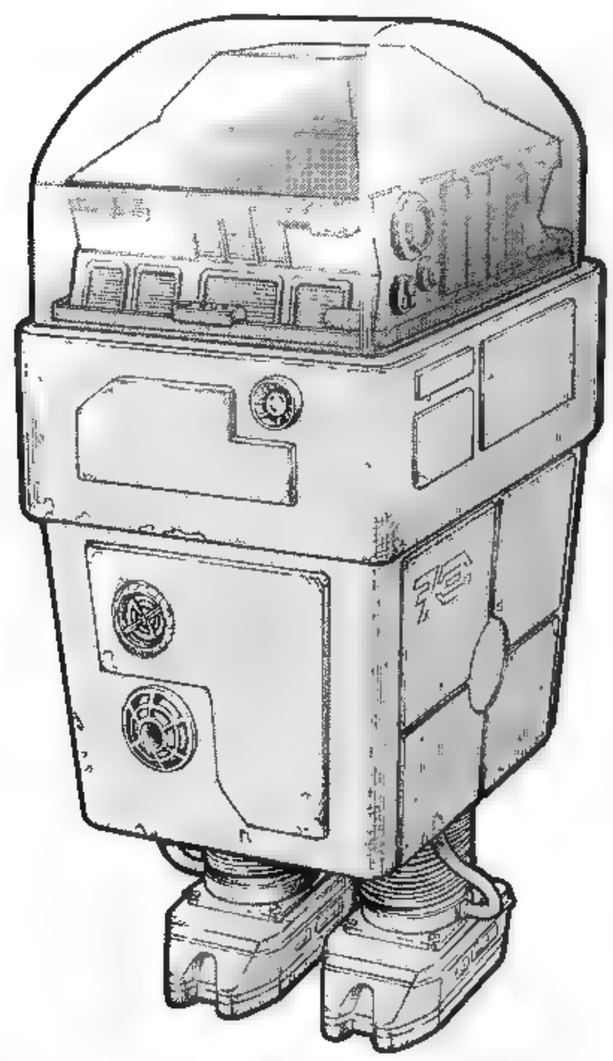
IB-94 BLASTER

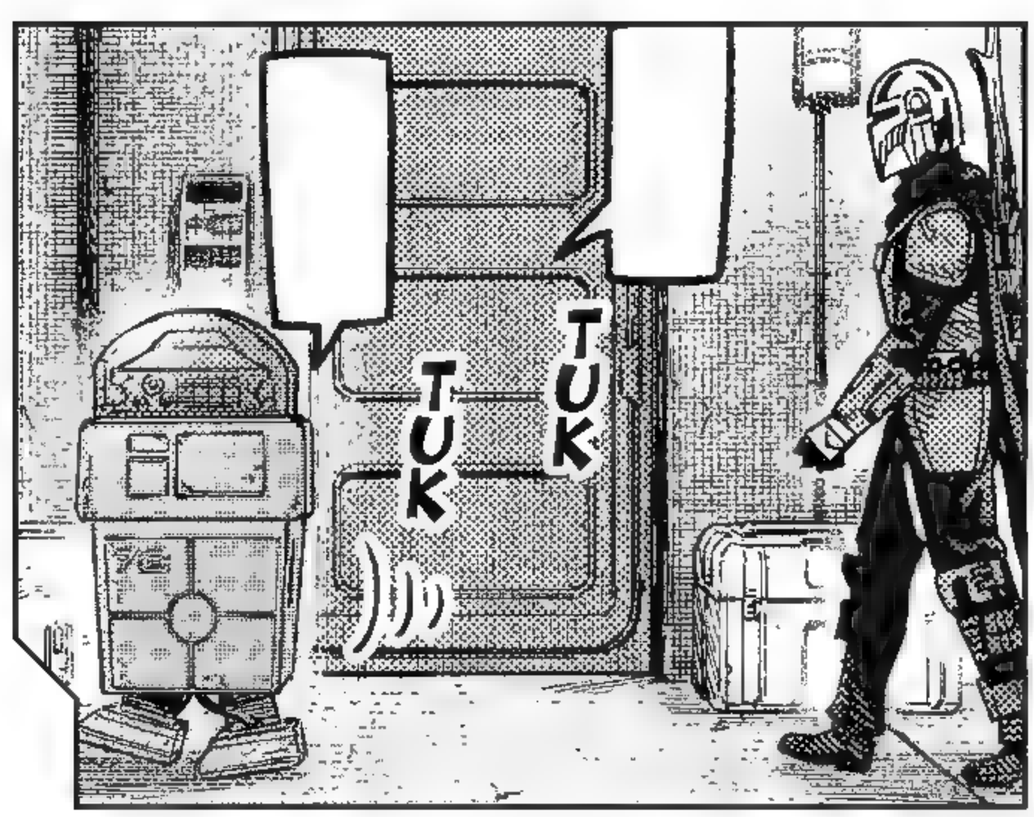




A blaster pistol made by BlasTech Industries. The IB-94 is a rare model that packs a surprising punch for its small size.

GONK DROID





Common throughout the galaxy, these droids are essentially mobile batteries that follow their owners' directives or programming to travel to and power vehicles and other machinery. The colloquial "gonk" nickname came about as a result of their distinctive utterances.

CARBON-FREEZING

An industrial process that combines high-strength carbonite with high-pressure gas to trap and preserve otherwise unstable materials. The technology was not originally developed to be used on living, sentient organisms, but when it is, the target is perfectly preserved (assuming it does not die in the process).

Thank you to all the Force-sensitive readers who picked up the Mandalorian manga.

My goal in life is to stay alive long enough to portray that one scene from season 2 (you know the one) in the manga, so I really appreciate your support.
